

Value Implications of President Xi's Important Remarks on Building a Human Health Community

Jiankai Wang<sup>1,*</sup>

<sup>1</sup>School of Marxism, Jiangsu University, Zhenjiang, Jiangsu, 212013, China

**Corresponding author*

Abstract: President Xi adheres to the fundamental purpose of serving the people and puts forward the important thesis of building a human health community, which is based on enriching the global public health governance system, fully demonstrating "Chinese wisdom" and focusing on the health and well-being of people from all over the world, highlighting the "beauty of human family". "It is also dedicated to providing new ideas for international exchange and cooperation, highlighting the "power of cooperation". President Xi's important statement on building a health community for humanity is of great significance in the new era of socialist construction.

Keywords: President Xi; Human Health Community; Important Discourse; Value Implications

1. Introduction

On 21 March 2020, President Xi first proposed the idea of a "human health community" in a message of condolence to French President Macron. A series of conference documents on building a human health community have been issued, focusing on issues such as healthy communities, who builds them and how to build them. President Xi's important remarks on building a human health community are based on Marx's idea of a "true community", deeply rooted in the excellent traditional Chinese culture of the Chinese nation and in the great practice of major public health events, and are Chinese wisdom that is adapted to the development of the times and the needs of reality. The important idea of a human health community adheres to the concept of "equality", building a "field of cooperation" and a "safe zone", with the concept of "community of destiny" and "cooperation". The community of destiny", "win-win cooperation" and other concepts to guide universal security, in order to achieve the protection of people's lives, to curb the spread of epidemics in the world[1]. Today, with the rapid development of economic globalisation, human development still faces the threat of war, resources, environment, public health and other global issues.

In early 2020, the world was caught off guard by the outbreak of Neocrown Pneumonia, an extremely difficult disease to prevent and control. With the rapid spread and expansion of the epidemic around the world, countries around the world are caught in a critical period of fighting the epidemic, and against this backdrop, President Xi has made a new statement on building a human health community, willing to work together with all countries in the world. Contributing Chinese wisdom and demonstrating Chinese solutions to win the global epidemic prevention and control blockade. President Xi's important statement on building a human health community is an in-depth interpretation of Marx's concept of "true community" and its application to the field of international public health, as well as an in-depth elaboration and analysis of the connotation of "human health community"[2]. In summary, President Xi's important remarks on building a community of health for humanity not only deepen Marx's value of a "true community", but also contribute Chinese wisdom to international health organisations. China's global plan to address the global public health crisis answers the question of the times: "Where is human health governance heading?"

2. The logic behind President Xi's important statement on building a human health community

President Xi's important statement on building a community for human health is an inheritance of Marx's idea of a "true community". President Xi's important statement on building a community of health for humanity follows Marx's idea of a "true community" in terms of its logic. Marx's idea of "true community" is an important source of President Xi's ideas on building a community of human health. President Xi's idea of building a community of human health is always based on the value of safeguarding the common interests of mankind. Marx's idea of a "true community" emphasises the importance of individual development. The concept of "community" is based on a global perspective and the common welfare of mankind, with the main objective of safeguarding the public life, health and safety of people all over the world, reflecting Marx's ideal of serving the people and aiming to achieve the well-being and health of the people. To sum up, President Xi's important statement on building a community of human health and wellness stands from the perspective of all humanity, with the aim of respecting people's life and health and safety, and on the premise of respecting people's life and health and safety, allowing human beings around the world to enjoy equal rights to life and health. In order to promote global public health governance, the pursuit of values is in line with the basic tenet of Marx's concept of "a true community".

President Xi's important statement on building a community for human health is a recreation of Marx's idea of a "true community". Marx's idea of "true community" states that only by building a communist society can we ensure that the essence of human beings can be restored, and that a communist society is in line with the theme of the times of peace and development. When the new epidemic spread around the world, the lives of the people were threatened, and President Xi's important discussion on building a community of health for human health, based on Marx's idea of "community", gave a deeper connotation to the important discussion on the community of health, emphasising that the people of the world should unite and work together. Therefore, President Xi's important statement on building a community of health for humanity is a re-creation of Marx's idea of a "true community"; while respecting the differences in national systems, the people of the world advocate a win-win situation for all countries, realising Marx's "community" model. The innovation of Marx's "community" model of thought[3]. To sum up, President Xi's important statement on building a community for human health is a re-creation of Marx's idea of a "true community" and its working model, and is a product of Marx's "true community".

The essence of President Xi's important statement on building a community of health for humanity is deeply rooted in the excellent traditional culture of the Chinese nation. On the one hand, President Xi's important statement on building a community of human health is an important statement based on the redevelopment of the "harmony" culture of the Chinese nation. The "harmony" culture of the Chinese nation is the beautiful imagination of many ancient Chinese sages for the ideal society of mankind, and is the aspiration and pursuit of the ideal society of ancient sages. It has become part of the wisdom of China in the new era. The excellent traditional culture of the Chinese nation supports President Xi's important statement on building a community of health for all in the new era, which reflects the health security of the country and respects the health security of other countries around the world. The contradictions and differences between things are the fundamental driving force behind their development. President Xi's important statement on building a human health community is based on the traditional Chinese culture of "harmony and difference", while adhering to the principle of "inclusiveness" and combining the security of the people of one country with those of other countries. In addition to addressing the health and safety issues of the country, it is also possible to focus on the health and safety of people in other countries.[4] To sum up, President Xi's important statement on building a community of human health is important for promoting the excellent traditional culture of the Chinese nation and enriching the development of human civilisation.

President Xi's important remarks on building a community of human health and wellness are a great practice for responding to major public health events in the new era. President Xi's important remarks on building a human health and health community are closely related to major public health events in the new era. In terms of President Xi's important statement on building a human health community, on the one hand, it can effectively curb the spread of new crown epidemics, which are characterised by rapid transmission, wide spread as well as great harm and impact, etc. President Xi summarised the experience of past epidemic prevention and control and pointed out that working together and joining hands to build a human health community is an important initiative. At the same time, President Xi pointed out that in building a human health community, no country and no people can do it alone, so we must work together to contain the spread of epidemics and resolve the crisis of the spread of new epidemics. In his important statement on building a human health community, President Xi pointed out that all countries in the world must work together in good faith, advance and retreat, and look at the long term in order to improve global public health governance and seize the opportunity to prevent and control epidemics. In summary, President Xi's important statement on building a human health community is a great statement in response to a major public health event, contributing Chinese wisdom and solutions to global epidemic prevention and control, and winning the praise and understanding of countries around the world.

3. Theoretical value of President Xi's important remarks on building a human health community

President Xi's important speech on building a human health community will be conducive to protecting the lives and health of people all over the world. In the midst of the spread of Newcastle Pneumonia, protecting people's lives has become a common goal for people around the world. Against this backdrop, President Xi has put forward an important discussion on building a human health community based on the main objective of guarding the lives and safety of people around the world. The discourse, which is centred on safeguarding the lives and health and well-being of the people, provides empirical guidance for curbing the spread of the new crown epidemic. Good physical fitness is the primary condition for the solution of anything, having a healthy body is a prerequisite for judging the well-being of the people, and for a country, the health of its nationals is a measure for judging the prosperity of the country. For this reason, President Xi pointed out in the important discussion on building a human health community that the safety of the lives of the people is of paramount importance, and the safety of the lives of the people must be safeguarded at all costs and physical health. President Xi's important discussion on building a human health community is based on the safety of people's lives around the world. It is based on the perspective of fairness and justice, and treats the safety of the lives of all countries and people equally. It also calls on more and more countries and people to participate in the prevention and control of epidemics, so as to jointly safeguard the lives and health of the people. In conclusion, President Xi's important statement on building a community of health for all helps to safeguard the lives and health of people around the world.

President Xi's important statement on building a human health community, which calls on major powers to take the initiative to assume their primary responsibilities. President Xi's important statement on building a human health community states that the Communist Party of China must take the initiative to shoulder its solemn commitment to its people, take the initiative to fulfil its international obligations and participate in world health governance, fully reflecting China's international humanitarian spirit and sense of responsibility as a great power. The core concept of President Xi's important statement on building a community of health for humanity is to establish the image of a great nation. Against the backdrop of the dormant New Crown epidemic, a great nation is not only able to help its own people resist the epidemic and prevent its spread, but also needs to establish its responsibility as a great nation and strive to ensure the health and safety of the people of other countries around the world, and against the backdrop of the rapidly spreading New Crown epidemic, the people's In the context of the rapidly spreading New Crown epidemic, the health and safety of people around the world are closely linked, and every country is at risk of suffering untoward consequences at any time. Therefore, President Xi's important statement on building a community for human health is not only concerned with the lives and health of the people in his own country, but also does not ignore the requests for cooperation from other countries or condemn the failures of other countries while ensuring his own safety. Rather, it is based on the common interests of the people of the world, and emphasises the need for countries to uphold the concept of a community of human destiny, and to realise the exchange of information on epidemic prevention and control, the mutual use of medical equipment and treatment methods, the sharing of experience in epidemic prevention and control, and the joint research and development of epidemic prevention and control drugs and mutual assistance.[5] To sum up, President Xi's important statement on building a community of human health calls on countries to consciously safeguard the lives and health of the people, pay attention to the prevention and control of epidemics in other countries, and work together to overcome epidemic crises through cooperation, so as to achieve a win-win situation for health.

The essence of President Xi's important statement on building a health community for humanity is to promote solidarity and collaboration among all countries in the world. In President Xi's important statement on building a human health community, the world is an organic whole made up of different countries, and human health and the fight against epidemics require the concerted efforts of all countries, not ignoring others, practising unilateralism or discrediting other countries, but on the premise of mutual respect and equality and reciprocity, breaking down the differences in systems, languages, ideologies and cultures. It should be based on mutual respect, equality and reciprocity, breaking down differences in systems, languages, ideologies and cultures, and uniting the strengths of all countries to fight the epidemic, thus promoting multifaceted cooperation and collaboration between different countries. Firstly, President Xi's important statement on building a community of health and wellness for mankind requires countries to speed up the sharing and exchange of medical resources and experience in combating epidemics; secondly, countries need to communicate and cooperate with each other in combating epidemics and help each other to win the public health battle against epidemics; thirdly, President Xi's important statement on building a community of health and wellness for mankind is widely used in the world. Fourthly, President Xi's important statement on building a community of human health has changed from the "Silk Road" to information sharing in the battle against epidemics. Health management. In summary, President Xi's important statement on building a community of health and health for all reflects the core spirit of solidarity and collaboration.

4. Relevance of President Xi's important remarks on building a human health community

President Xi's important remarks on building a human health community provide Chinese wisdom for the world's efforts to combat epidemics. President Xi's important remarks on building a human health community are based on Marx's concept of a "true community" and deeply integrated with Chinese wisdom. Firstly, President Xi's important statement on building a community of health for humanity is centred on the Communist Party's philosophy of serving the people, actively strengthening communication and exchange between China's excellent traditional culture and other countries, and spreading China's experience in fighting the epidemic, prevention and control measures and experience in fighting the epidemic to other countries around the world through the establishment of various platforms. The second is to provide China's anti-epidemic solutions to all countries in the world; secondly, in the context of President Xi's ideas on building a human health community, "strengthening international exchanges and cooperation to build a human health community", "taking the road of solidarity and cooperation" and "building a new type of Third, in order to better cope with the impact of the epidemic on the world, President Xi's important remarks on building a human health community point out that all countries must work together in the context of the new era to achieve "policy communication, facility connectivity, trade facilitation and financial integration" among all countries. [6]. In summary, President Xi's important statement on building a human health community is an important initiative to effectively address global health governance and provides new ideas for exchange and cooperation development.

President Xi's important remarks on building a human health and wellness community have brought together a consensus on the value of improving human life and health. President Xi's important remarks on building a human health and wellness community have reached a consensus on the value of improving human life and health by upholding the concept of a human health and wellness community while safeguarding the health and safety of our people and joining hands with other countries to build a human health and wellness community. Firstly, there is a consensus on the value of responsibility in President Xi's important statement on building a human health community. In his discourse, President Xi pointed out that building a human health community requires the unity of nations and societies to jointly resist social risk challenges and jointly safeguard the lives and health of the people. In responding to major international public health events, countries must shoulder collective responsibility and establish the concept of solidarity and joint efforts, providing new ideas for countries around the world to coordinate epidemic prevention and control efforts, achieve economic and social development, and cope with the epidemic prevention and control forces of various countries; secondly, President Xi's important discourse on building a human health community gathers a consensus on the value of common construction and sharing. In the era of economic globalization and cultural globalization, public health governance and the political, economic, cultural and social differences between countries, power politics, zero-sum games and cold war thinking have long been unworkable, and the leading direction in the fight against epidemics is to work together and help each other.[7] President Xi's important remarks on building a community of health for mankind have highlighted the value of building and sharing together, including strengthening policy dialogue with countries around the world, carrying out international joint prevention and control, sharing the results of public health governance and other joint building and sharing actions, which have built a consensus on the value of building and sharing together to resist the threat of major social and public health incidents, promote global health governance and jointly build a line of defense to ensure human health security.

President Xi's important remarks on building a community of human health guarantee the stable development of people's security under the normalisation of epidemic prevention and control. Nowadays, although the epidemic has been prevented and controlled in certain aspects, it is still in an ebb and flow phase. Therefore, international countries must prepare for a protracted war against the epidemic and achieve the normalised development of epidemic prevention and control by jointly building a human health community. On the one hand, President Xi's important discourse on building a community of human health has always been resolute in safeguarding the safety of life and physical health of people around the world, emphasising that countries must put aside ideological differences and work together to manage public health from the perspective of epidemic knowledge dissemination, epidemic prevention and control, as well as vaccine development and vaccination; on the other hand,

President Xi's important discourse on building a community of human health advocates political mutual trust, interconnectedness and win-win cooperation, abandoning the game mentality, helping countries normalise epidemic prevention and control through exchanges and cooperation, and building a more just and reasonable new order for national social development [8]

5. Conclusion

To sum up, President Xi's important remarks on building a human health community are based on Marx's concept of a "true community", with human health and well-being as the value orientation and the response to the challenges of the times as the goal, and are profoundly elaborated around solidarity, mutual help and multilateral consultation. It also provides Chinese solutions and wisdom for promoting the construction of global health governance, as well as theoretical guidance for dealing with the current global public health crisis.

Acknowledgements

This paper was supported by Jiangsu Provincial Social Science Foundation Youth Project "Research on State Governance Ideas of Classic Marxist Writers and Their Contemporary Values"(19MLC004).

References

- [1] Zhu Yimei, Dong Jun. (2022). The Generative Logic and Theoretical Value of President Xi's Important Discourse on Human Health Community[J]. Journal of Changzhou Institute of Technology (Social Science Edition),vol.40, no.2, p.109-113.
- [2] Wang Shuli, Wang Fengqin. (2021). Study on President Xi's concept of "human health community" and the principles and paths of its construction[J]. Journal of Guiyang Municipal Party School, vol.03,p.7-11.
- [3] Xinhua News Agency special report. (2021). President Xi attends global health summit on May 21 and puts forward 5 points - join hands to build a community of human health and wellness [J]. Journal of Shandong Cadre Correspondence University (Theory Study),vol06,p.1.
- [4] Chen Shuangquan. (2021). The theoretical connotation, basic features and value implications of President Xi's important discourse on people's health[J]. Xinjiang Social Science, vol03,p.12-18.
- [5] Yu Zhongxin. (2021). President Xi's important statement on human health community: the basis for its formulation, main contents and value implications[J]. Deng Xiaoping Studies, vol02,p.97-105.
- [6] Liao Pinghun. (2021). Strengthening cooperation in fighting epidemics and building a health community by taking advantage of regional location--In-depth study and implementation of the spirit of General Secretary President Xi's important speech at the "two sessions"[J]. Contemporary Guangxi, vol02,p.12-13.
- [7] Qi Chengshui. (2020). The theoretical origins, value implications and practical directions of President Xi's important discourse on people's health[J]. Journal of Gansu Theory, vol05,p.12-19.
- [8] Editorial Board of China Occupational Medicine. (2020). Building a community of human health together--On studying and implementing the important speech of General Secretary President Xi at the symposium of experts and scholars[J]. China Occupational Medicine, vol47,no.3,p.328.