

A Multi-Dimensional Perspective Study of English Linguistics Based on Linguistic Corpus

Jin Xie

School of Foreign Languages, Sichuan Technology and Business University, Chengdu, 610000, China

Abstract: English linguistics has always been a research topic for English educators, which needs to be studied from different perspectives. With the development of the times, English, as an important tool in global communication, has been contacted and understood by more people, and English linguistics has become one of the basic compulsory courses for many English majors. It is necessary, reasonable and feasible to put forward the multi-dimensional perspective of English linguistics research. The research on English linguistics should pay more attention to the depth and the breadth of connection with other subjects. Research should closely follow the current trend of subject development and open up the research perspective of English linguistics. In recent years, my country's research on English linguistics has gradually deepened, and more and more attention has been paid to the cultivation of English majors. This article briefly introduces the relevant background knowledge of the corpus, and discusses the definition and classification of the corpus. Then it analyzes some changes in English linguistics under the background of corpus, and discusses the importance of corpus to language learning.

Keywords: Linguistics; Multidimensional perspective; corpus

1. Introduction

Linguistics has a long historical influence and significance in the process of human civilization. It records people's historical evolution [1]. Restricted by various reasons, the current corpus has not been fully used, resulting in the waste of many valuable resources. With the continuous development of economic globalization, China has integrated into the tide of world development and is playing a more and more important role [2]. Among them, the development of English linguistics plays a vital role in China's political, economic and cultural development. Especially for English, which is the lingua franca of the world, this role is even more prominent. With the development of the times, English, as an important tool in global communication, has been contacted and understood by more people, and English linguistics has become one of the basic compulsory courses for many English majors. Now English has become the most spoken language in the world, and the number of speakers is gradually increasing. In the course of historical development, English linguistics has gradually formed its own complete system. Especially in the context of international language development where cross-cultural communication continues to deepen and advance, English language is not only a tool of communication and communication, but also has In order to carry out the research of English linguistics with a deeper meaning, it is necessary to conduct research from different angles and perspectives to explore the new possibilities of English linguistics [3]. At the same time, it is necessary to compare English linguistics with other subjects in order to broaden the research channels of English linguistics.

In the new college English course teaching requirements issued by the Ministry of education, it is clearly stated that English classroom teaching should combine computer technology, replace the traditional teaching mode with new media teaching mode, change the single state of teaching mode, and promote the development of personalized learning based on modern information science and technology [4]. Because language is an important carrier, many problems depend on language to express and deal with, and language coexists and integrates with other disciplines. In the new college English course teaching requirements issued by the Ministry of education, it is clearly stated that English classroom teaching should combine computer technology and replace the traditional teaching mode with new media teaching mode. Based on this, the expression of modern English language is not limited to the simple means and tools of communication, and linguistic research is no longer a simple basic study of language. More attention should be paid to the depth of research and the breadth of connection with other disciplines. With the interdisciplinary development trend of academic research, the research perspective of English linguistics should be broadened to promote the further development of English linguistics research in the new era and new stage [5]. Therefore, in order to better master this language and linguistics, more and more scholars are studying it from a multi-dimensional perspective. They are no longer limited to simple communication, but based on historical culture, development process and Nowadays, politics and other disciplines conduct in-depth research on it.

2. A motivational analysis of English linguistics from a multidimensional perspective

2.1. The necessity of multi-dimensional study of English Linguistics

The relationship between language and people is a two-way interactive relationship. On the one hand, people create language, which plays a dominant role in language; On the other hand, language can, in turn, to a certain extent, influence and restrict human thought and behavior with its ideological content and its own rules and understanding. At this stage, people began to write in English, and the great poet Dante, the great painter Da Vinci and the literary master Shakespeare appeared. With the rise of humanism, English linguistics has developed rapidly. Because mankind began to recognize themselves anew, instead of following the call of God or religion. This was the first great ideological enlightenment in human history. It allowed mankind to have self-awareness, gradually get rid of the shackles of religion, and truly pursue human values and dignity. The ideological and cultural movement will inevitably promote the development of language, because language is not only a tool for communication, but also a weapon. The Renaissance established the status of English in Britain and soon became the official language.

Based on this division, English linguistics also has a clearer definition. The corpus has undergone certain development, from the first generation period from the 1970s to the 1980s to the third generation corpus from the 1990s to the present, it has been continuously improved and developed. The collection of corpus is also more comprehensive and rigorous [6]. Language is a communication tool. People use language to communicate with each other, and language has a direct relationship with thinking. Language expresses the results of human thinking activities in the form of words and sentences, thus realizing human communication. Language can convey people's emotions, and we can understand a new world outlook and values through language. Analyzing language from the perspective of philosophy can expand its research field.

2.2. Rationality of multi-dimensional perspective research in English Linguistics

According to philosophy, many aspects of contradictions in things both struggle with each other and depend on each other, and the alternation of this struggle and dependence constitutes the general trend of things development. This shows that the interdependent relationship can also push things forward. With the development of global economy and trade, the links between countries are gradually strengthened. This development process is the development process of English linguistics. People begin to realize that English is not only a communication tool, but also has a deeper historical and cultural meaning. This is the beginning of truly taking English as an independent subject, while studying English from different perspectives. Some scholars take the development of history and culture as the perspective, and some scholars take the perspective of social progress. Many people have the understanding that English language is a kind of symbol, which can be arranged in any combination, but this concept is incorrect [7]. This is a misunderstanding of the English language. The stronger the language system in culture, the more people will have such misunderstandings. According to the research of linguists at home and abroad, language, as a symbol, combined according to certain rules, will reflect the social, values and national views of relevant countries or nations. No matter any language system, it is the result of people's own cultural conventions in the past. Taking the study of Chinese characters as an example, ideographic characters, as the origin of Chinese characters, have gradually developed from drawing and physical recording to oracle bone inscriptions. Oracle bone inscriptions are both pictographic and phonographic characters, which are considered to be the first form of Chinese characters.

3. Innovative Analysis of English Linguistics in the Context of Corpus Data

3.1. Use the resources of the corpus to manually add, delete and modify functions

In the context of corpus data, English linguistics teaching can use modern information technology to realize online communication between teachers and students and break the time and space constraints of learning. English linguistics, as a basic compulsory course for English language majors, plays a very important role in learning English. The development of language has promoted the development of productive forces. From farming society to industrial society, from industrial society to modern society, every progress of productive forces has promoted the development of language. On the one hand, the development of language makes people's behavior and life richer and dominates people's behavioral awareness. On the other hand, the essence of language is a tool of communication. However, with the progress of human history, people's lives have become more and more abundant. The language is also enriched. The classification of anthropological semiotics is shown in Fig. 1.

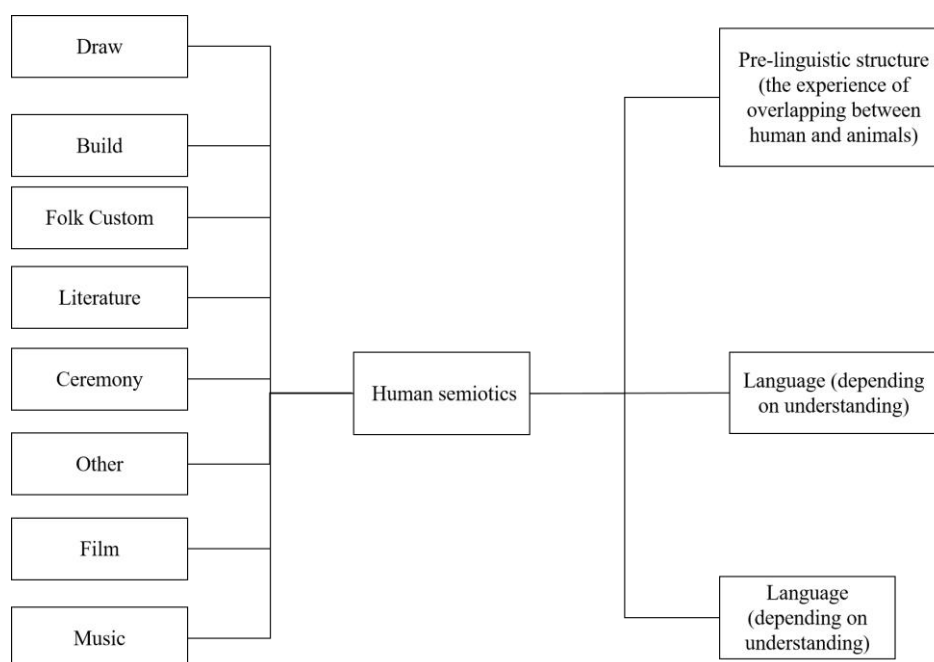

Figure 1: Human semiotic classification

Including English linguistics, there was little cross-border contact with other disciplines in the past [8]. From the philosophical point of view, this obviously hinders the development space of linguistics. The philosophical contradiction theory provides a reference for the research and development of English linguistics, and also provides a philosophical theoretical basis for interdisciplinary research of English linguistics. In addition, when researching and applying the language of any country or nation, there is another point that cannot be ignored, that is, language taboos, which are also closely related to local culture and are also a form of expression of culture. Generally speaking, there is still a lot of room for the development of cultural studies of English linguistics. Chinese scholars should have an international perspective, absorb and learn from the ideology and culture of English-speaking countries, and promote the further advancement of English linguistics research.

3.2. Provide English linguistics resources according to users' needs

English linguistics is an integral part of the linguistic family. It has a long history of development, follows the development and way of thinking of other linguistics, and has its profound cultural and theoretical background. During the Renaissance from 14th century to 16th century, English linguistics entered its initial stage of development, which was called linguistics in the traditional sense. Shakespeare created a series of classic literary works. In the Renaissance, English linguistics showed rich linguistic intentions and applied these linguistic intentions flexibly. According to the needs of students and teachers, clearly classify the English resources of the corpus, divide them into English textbook resource block, reading resource block, music resource block, video resource block, etc., and establish a data list of the corresponding section to allow users. In the process of using, you can quickly find the corresponding resources according to your own needs, so as to better learn the subject of English, have a more comprehensive grasp of the course of English linguistics, and timely determine the safety of learning resources to ensure that the resources are comprehensive sex. Chinese English linguists study English linguistics. Due to the limitations of the above background, it is quite difficult to surpass or catch up with their local counterparts [9]. However, it is not impossible to study, but to highlight the background and premise of China, break through and innovate the research barriers of English linguistics, combine with practice, carry out our localization research on English language, broaden the research field, open up new perspectives, make the research results Chinese-style understanding and promote them to Chinese linguistic practice. The fields here include philosophy, culture, psychology, politics and so on.

4. Conclusions

Corpus is of great significance to English linguistics. Using data background to search related materials can combine traditional teaching disciplines with modern teaching mode, and stimulate students' learning motivation and learning potential for English linguistics. How to better and effectively translate words with Chinese characteristics is still one of the contents worthy of our attention in the future. English linguistics research should not only pay attention to the social and humanistic perspective, but also deepen its connection with science and technology disciplines with the development of science and technology. As far as its research perspective is concerned, there will be many branches and refinements, which should be gradually promoted. From the naming of a country, published documents, public leaders' speeches, etc., the characteristics of a country's political system can be reflected in the language [10]. By studying this phenomenon of political language, the country's politics can be understood more scientifically and objectively, and its political trend can be judged. As a widely used language, with the development of globalization, all countries pay more and more attention to English Linguistics and the popularization of education. In order to better master this important global language and obtain the basic conditions for international communication, relevant scholars should have a multi-dimensional perspective when studying it, From the political, cultural, philosophical and other aspects of interdisciplinary discussion, by broadening their horizons to find new in-depth points and obtain more in-depth research results.

References

- [1] Ni Peng. Research on English reading teaching based on corpus linguistics [J] Overseas English, 2017 (12): 2
- [2] Zhou Zhendong. A corpus based systemic functional linguistic analysis of English independent nominative structure [J] Journal of Jilin Normal University of engineering technology, 2016, 32 (8): 3
- [3] Lu Chang, Ma Jiabin. Introduction of Cambridge English Corpus Linguistics Manual [J]. Foreign Language Teaching Theory and Practice, 2019(4):5.
- [4] Cen Qinglin. Research on the Use of Red in English Children's Literature—Based on Corpus Linguistics and Foreign Language Teaching [J]. 2020.
- [5] Zhao Qu, Zhang Tongle. A study of vocabulary in College English textbooks from the perspective of corpus linguistics [J] Journal of Anhui University of science and technology, 2017, 031 (001): 118-122
- [6] Zhao Yu. Innovative analysis of English linguistics teaching under the background of corpus data [J]. Modern English, 2020(6):3.
- [7] Zhao Qu, Zhang Tongle, et al. A Study on the Vocabulary of College English Textbooks from the Perspective of Corpus Linguistics [J]. Journal of Anhui University of Science and Technology, 2017, 31(1):5.
- [8] Wu Longfeng, Zhan Hongwei. A corpus based study of English Past Participle Adjectives [J] Language education, 2016 (4): 7
- [9] Zhao Yu. Innovative analysis of English linguistics teaching under the background of corpus data [J]. Modern English, 2020(6):3.
- [10] Huang Xiaohong, Tao Xiao. An analysis of the role of English language in the process of literary characterization -- on the corpus linguistic research method of literary language and characterization: an analysis of Virginia Woolf's waves [J] News and writing, 2021 (7): 1