1. Introduction

The critical consciousness is regarded by many experts at home and abroad as the starting point for education to lead people to liberation and freedom. They believe that critical consciousness is: "Learn to perceive social, political and economic contradictions in reality, and take actions to prevent oppressive factors in reality" [1]. To some extent, critical consciousness is the conscious ability to discriminate and solve the problems faced on the basis of rational judgment in human conceptual system. To be specific, critical consciousness can be divided into three levels: alert consciousness, problem consciousness and solving consciousness. The vigilance consciousness is a kind of guard against the unknown and uncertainty of nature, human society and oneself. The occurrence of natural hazards and disasters is out of human control, the complex social relations in human society are anxious by human beings, and the unwise behavior of human beings is disgusted by human beings. All these will pose a threat to human beings themselves. It is based on safety considerations and creates a sense of vigilance. Problem consciousness is the orientation and concretization of alert consciousness, and the application of alert consciousness to earthly life is problem consciousness. Therefore, problem consciousness comes from the empirical judgment of the real world. It is people's awareness of the crisis, confusion and difficulties in the real world. This awareness points to a kind of curiosity, knowledge seeking and exploration, and expects the problem to be solved. Solving consciousness is a response to problem consciousness. It is to explore specific solutions to problems by using relevant knowledge and skills according to certain goals, so as to solve problems. It is important to note that critical consciousness is different from critical thinking. The critical thinking is a logical and rigorous intellectual activity process, in which people will consciously use knowledge, methods and skills to reason and judge the existing conclusions or authorities, only involving the subject unilaterally. In contrast, critical consciousness is not only a kind of intellectual activity and thinking calculation, but also a spiritual awakening with value on this basis. This awakening points to a kind of rational construction, contains the mutual transformation of the objective relationship between the subject and the object, and reflects a kind of humanistic spirit and personality temperament. Generally speaking, critical thinking is a kind of embedded thinking skill, while critical consciousness is a kind of internalized value orientation.

In the early years of the founding of New China, the people who had just experienced the War of liberation were still immersed in the shadow of successive wars. Under the background of the post-war socialist construction as the central task, the cultivation of patriotic values of Chinese college students in Japan was in a period of initial and tortuous progress. In view of this situation, the CPC Central Committee has taken a series of measures to cultivate patriotic values of Chinese college students in Japan [2]. First of all, we should combine patriotic values with the ideology respected by the society. Patriotism and love socialism are intrinsically linked. We should liberate them from the old thoughts and edify patriotic thoughts. Secondly, Chinese college students studying in Japan should clarify the history and cultivate their patriotic values based on the basic national conditions, so that they can understand the hard-won victory of the Anti-Japanese War and establish firm ideals and beliefs. Chinese college students in Japan have a profound patriotic tradition. Since the late Qing Dynasty, countless Chinese college students in Japan have played a huge positive role in propagating bourgeois democratic thought and promoting the process of modern bourgeois democratic revolution. In modern times, a large number of Chinese scholars have gone to Japan to study, among which outstanding representatives such as Lu, Li, Lin, Chen, Guo, Hu, Huang, Deng, Chen, etc., have made outstanding contributions to the development of modern China, inspiring Chinese college students in Japan with their devotion to serving the country and their tireless efforts. Thirdly, we will help Chinese college students in Japan re-understand Marxism and the CPC, and attract outstanding Chinese college students in Japan to return to the motherland and contribute to socialist construction through diplomatic public opinion guidance and publicity by non-governmental organizations and groups.

After the reform and opening-up policy was implemented in 1978, the Chinese society gradually advocated openness and democracy, China's education gradually recovered and got on the right track, and the cultivation of patriotic values entered a period of continuous development and gradual improvement. In the continuous improvement of the values cultivation of college students in Japan, the cultivation of patriotic values has elaborated, spread and stabilized the importance of socialist ideology in rich content and ways [3]. In the early stage of reform and opening up, in the face of sudden changes at home and abroad, the cultivation of patriotic values combined with excellent traditional culture and national values, helped Chinese college students in Japan consciously resist the erosion of western extremist and one-sided thoughts, helped them to shape a scientific, rational and healthy understanding of patriotism, and improved their ideological consciousness and spiritual state. Under the guidance of spiritual civilization, the cultivation of patriotic values of Chinese college students in Japan has been carried out in a more active, extensive and diversified way, and has achieved remarkable results. Later, patriotic values education bases and films and books with patriotic values as their main content began to appear in China, pushing the cultivation of patriotic values of college students in Japan to a new stage of development in a subtle way. In the new century, the CPC Central Committee proposed in the 16th National Congress report that the cultivation of patriotic values should be accompanied by patriotic spirit and noble character, and the cultivation of patriotic values should be carried out as an important task of cultural construction. The report of the 17th National Congress further explained that the cultivation of patriotic values should be effectively integrated into the national quality education and the construction of spiritual civilization, so as to turn passive into active, explore more active ways to lead, and resolutely resist the erosion of wrong and decadent ideas. Since then, the state has attached great importance to the cultivation of patriotic values for college students in Japan. The patriotic values of the new era are not narrow and closed nationalism, but open socialism facing the world. Having a broad vision based on the nation and facing the world is an important content and inevitable choice to cultivate patriotic values. It is necessary to take the unity of patriotism, love of the Party and love of socialism, which are unique national characteristics of China, as the core content, to advocate and promote Chinese patriotic values in a wider vision and at a higher level. In other words, the patriotic values promoted by China are not self-contained or egoistic. Rather, they are built on the basis of national confidence and pride. They are formed under the international community of shared future with an open mind, an international vision and an open mind to respect other civilizations and fine cultural achievements [5]. To link China's destiny with that of the world, we should not only promote patriotism, but also continue to open wider to the outside world. We should encourage university students to go out and learn about other countries' historical characteristics and cultural traditions, and absorb their essence to drive China's economic development. This means that Chinese patriotism is not closed or blocked, but an open patriotism that integrates national, cooperative and supply characteristics. As neighbors separated by a strip of water, Japan and China have extensive political and economic contacts and frequent interactions. In this context, Chinese college students in Japan need to have the courage to face the history, have an international vision, an international mind and an international responsibility. While going out, they should avoid or eliminate the prejudice and misunderstanding of the Japanese people towards China, so that Japan can better understand China, show the elegance of China to Japan, and love their country rationally under the guidance of patriotic values, to undertake the mission and responsibility of cultural exchange and communication.
