Abstract: At the beginning of the 21st century, on the one hand, the current situation of the development of socialism in the world, which is very colorful, is always mixed with such practical problems as the Base is not strong and the political geopolitical struggles are endless, although the world development pattern ;strong with resources and weak with society; still exists, the Communist Party of China;super-strong ability in leading and governing has also constantly emerged, and the superiority of socialism has gradually shown itself, the cause of world socialism is also striving for the victory of the new era in its hard development. Therefore, the development of world socialism should, on the basis of expanding the application of new media technologies, continue to strengthen the construction of ideological theories, work hard to promote the construction of a community of shared future for mankind, and continue to lead all countries in the world to prosperity and strength, can better promote the development of the cause of communism.

1. Introduction

The World Socialist Movement is mainly a worldwide socialist organization composed of representatives of the working class to explore how socialism and communism can replace the development of capitalism, its aim is to achieve the liberation of all mankind through peaceful movements. In the movement of the Liberation of all mankind, the socialist countries continue to affirm the historical and contemporary value of Marxism, so that the "Communist Manifesto" in the 21st century in various socialist countries can cause a strong response. As Xi pointed out: "In the one hundred and seventy + years since the communist manifesto was issued, Marxism has been widely spread around the world." [1] In the history of human thought, no theory of thought has had such a broad and profound influence on mankind as Marxism, the development of socialism in the 21st century is still inseparable from the continuous development of Marxism. The believers of communism in the world can only firmly believe in the belief that communism will prevail and have the courage to push forward theoretical innovation based on practice, to better contribute to the cause of socialism with the wisdom and strength of national development.

2. Current Situation and problems in the development of world socialism

In the 21st century, the development of socialism in the world is colorful. The existing five socialist countries are the first to have the opportunity to enter the communist society, especially the further development of socialism in China, it further confirms the Scientific Truth of Marxism. However, the problems of hegemony and Power politics in the western capitalist countries have also hindered the development and progress of the socialist cause to varying degrees. The problems of the weak Base of the socialist countries themselves came to light one after another, making the realization of the communist ideal even more difficult, at the same time, the continuous emergence of the world geopolitical struggle has also added many difficulties to the development of socialism.

2.1 All colours of the world's socialist development

Since the beginning of the 21st century, the development of socialism in the world has been colorful, the special year 2018 marks the centennial of Major Party building events including the Greek people's Communist Party, the Finnish Communist Party, the Ukrainian Communist Party, the German Communist Party, the Hungarian Communist Party, the Argentine Communist Party and the Austrian Communist Party. The Communist Party of many socialist countries held a grand congress of the party, fully discussed the long-term development of the Communist Party, and made scientific judgments on the international situation at the present stage, for the future development of the Communist Party put forward a lot of new theoretical slogans.

The 500-year historical experience of the development of socialism in the world has fully proved that the socialist road is scientific and can effectively help the poor and backward countries in the semi-marginal areas and the marginal areas to become prosperous. With the continuous development and advancement of the cause of socialism with Chinese characteristics, the international communist movement shows vitality, while the socialist advantage of "concentrating on important matters" is constantly displayed. Vladimir Lenin pointed out: "It is inevitable that all nations will move towards socialism, but all nations will not do so in exactly the same way. [2] This is a profound demonstration that the development of all countries in the world should be based on their own actual conditions, we can learn from but not copy the development path of other countries, so that we can truly walk the "exclusive" path of our own socialism. The Communist Party of India, for example, "reached 1,000,500 members in 2018.[3]"The political resolution adopted at the country's twenty-two Party congresses also clearly states that the party's main development goal is to build a strong left wing Democratic Front, and to better study and develop Marxism and the Leninism, to build the world's most powerful political party; The Twelfth National Congress of the Syrian Communist Party clearly put forward the political slogans of "defending the motherland and safeguarding the survival of the people" and "fighting for the establishment of a broader international anti-imperialist front" , is to be able to better promote the international communist movement forward, scientific and effective resistance to the invasion of imperialist capitalist ideas, and then let the socialist allies around the world better together; The withdrawal of the 55th National Congress of the Communist Party of Great Britain from the EU is hypocritical and unscientific, which will inevitably lead to the delay or even retrogression of the development of socialism Twenty-seven of the national congresses of the Hungarian Workers' Party explicitly put forward the slogan of establishing a "strong Hungarian Workers' Party" so that the Hungarian political party can better stand on its feet, in the process of scientifically and effectively resisting the "decentralized" development of socialism, the French Communist Party has constantly achieved its own strength, it is a new appeal for in-depth development of the cause of communism. It is hoped that the Communist Party will actively adhere to the communist ideal, actively strengthen unity within the party, and then seize a new victory for communism. In general, although the socialist development paths of different countries are different, the common goal of ideological overall planning is to adhere to the development of Marxism and the emancipation of all mankind, on the road to national independence and self-reliance, China is constantly marching towards the international trend of socialism, and on the road to reform, it has clearly pointed out that China should stick to its own path of development with its own characteristics, deepen reform and strengthen itself. In a word, the development of world socialism needs the long-term groping efforts of all countries, and the difficulties definitely exist. Only by constantly seeking the fundamental ways to solve the problems can we ensure the sustained and healthy development of our countries, only on this basis can we further explore the new cause of building World Socialism.

2.2 The Base of world socialism is weak

World Socialism is not a simple, dangerous and narrow-minded regional movement, but a proletarian movement in which different countries unite to seek liberation for their own development. Comrade Deng Xiaoping pointed out: "Every country has a different foundation, a different history, a different environment, a different neighborhood, and many other differences." [4] The current state of Base in various countries, the principal contradictions in capitalist countries and the contradictions among the leading classes will all have a profound impact on the development and progress of the socialist cause.

Since the beginning of the 21st century, few violent revolutions have taken place in the developed capitalist countries. The development of the Digital Economy era has made the cost of violent revolution too high, thus encouraging countries to use peaceful development methods for capital accumulation, which is the historical trend of social development. In the developed capitalist countries, the productive forces and Relations of production are highly developed, the economic growth is rapid, and the people are happy, whereas the poor population is a very small minority and does not represent the advanced productive forces, this is one of the reasons why the Base is not strong. In 2018, for example, although "Vietnam's GDP has exceeded $244.5 billion, nearly 10 times that of 1986($26.34 billion) [5]", but "the world's developed economies have a per capita GDP of $46,600, the world's average is $11,400, and developing economies have a per capita GDP of $5,700. [6] ". Even if the quality of life of the people in the developed capitalist countries continues to improve and even reaches a relatively affluent stage, this does not mean that the development of capitalism has been able to accomplish all the tasks of human development, the U.S. Census Bureau reported "in September 2017 that more than 40 million people across the country live in poverty"[7]. Even in a world superpower like the United States, there are still ten million people living in poverty, a sign that the lopsided base of economic development is still widening. In contrast, communism's extremely rich material life will make people's spiritual pursuit beyond all other material bases. If People's material needs can not be effectively guaranteed for a long time, even if one day communism becomes a reality, it will only be a flash in the PAN, or even a "historical reversal". The problem of "polarization" in society seems to have been solved when the material resources are extremely abundant, but if the long-term effective material supply base can not be maintained at this time, after a period of time, the socio-economic development problems experienced in the process of "reforming and opening the market economy" in Laos, in the process of "perfecting the Economic Model" in Vietnam, in the process of "renewing the economic development model" in Cuba, and in the process of "building the economy" in North Korea may come back to life, "Gorgeous" edifices may collapse on an uneven basis, and deep-seated social contradictions may resume, even more serious than the original contradictions of capitalism at this time, ecological crisis, epidemic prevention and control crisis, refugee crisis and other social crisis will become increasingly obvious, social development may once again fall into chaos or even retrogression. The Communist movement was a long and arduous process, the progress of the world's economic development was not coordinated, and even the countries and regions that had benefited greatly from the "Washington Consensus" could not escape the financial storm, the contradictions of the instability of the Base continue to emerge, which will be a huge barrier to entry into communist society.

2.3 The world is full of political and geopolitical struggles

Since the beginning of the 21st century, anti-globalization movement has emerged in many developed countries, especially in the European and American countries, such as Britain's withdrawal from the European Union and trade protectionism. The geopolitics of the world has never ceased, and the decision to leave the EU was made in 2016 in a referendum organised by the UK, which officially lost Britain's support for the EU in a difficult 2019, the political situation in Europe has therefore taken on a new pattern of development.

It has to be said that brexit itself is an irreconcilable product of the House and the government, thus causing the gap in the EU's internal financial chain, the franco-german struggle for "sovereignty" and other issues constantly emerge. On the one hand, in 2017, Europe's developed countries continue to escalate geopolitical conflicts. "The Communist Party of Canada held simultaneous rallies in more than 60 towns condemning racism and neo-fascist movements, appealing to all victims of persecution to unite in the fight against racist forces; "[8]"the Irish Communist Party, seeking to improve the quality of public services, personally organized the "Right to Water" movement and staged nationwide demonstrations to prevent the government from privatizing natural resources and public services."[9]. these contradictions in the developed countries of Europe can be said to be a special product of regional political struggles and a true reflection of the development of the international community. On the other hand, under former President Donald Trump's slogan of "America First", the United States implemented trade protectionism and unilateralism in North America and even at the national level. The United States has been advocating a unipolar world development situation, Russia, the European Union, China and other countries have been seeking a multi-polar global development model, thus worsening the contradiction between world geopolitics. This is an increasingly vicious political struggle. The United States has adopted trade protectionism and even imposed tariffs on China, and even assumed the posture of negotiating with China "from strength", this is a sign of the immature development of major powers and their contempt for their neighbours in the world political landscape, and is not conducive to the long-term harmonious development of all countries in the world. The outbreak of trade war between China and the United States is not beneficial to the citizens of the two countries, nor will it have a negative impact on the development of world politics and economy and the change of international social pattern. The economic and political system of the United States itself has many problems, such as blindly expanding consumption, creating a false state of market prosperity, non-interference between the central and local governments, and separate governance, those in power seek their own political interests by externalizing these issues into trade wars, thus diverting attention from those in power. Since socialism with Chinese characteristics has entered a new era, China's political and economic power has been rising constantly, whereas the political and economic power of the United States shows signs of declining. The United States is worried that China's development will affect the current changes in the world's development pattern, the fear that its economic position as a "hub-and-spoke" would be threatened is at the root of the geopolitical struggle. The good or bad relationship between China and the United States is of great practical significance for the long-term development of the world. If the geopolitical struggle continues for a long time, different countries will take political positions at that time, causing international chaos to reappear, this runs counter to the strategic goal of socialist development.

3. The situation and opportunities facing the world socialist development

The cause of socialist development in the world can not be accomplished overnight. We must be prepared to steadily advance the cause of communism under the situation of "strong resources and weak society" so as to win the victory of the new era. In the 21st century, in the process of China becoming stronger step by step, the superiority of socialism has been continuously revealed, although some erroneous ideological trends in the West have been emerging and infiltrating, and the new international development situation has become more and more severe, to be a new opportunity for the development of World Socialism.

3.1 It will be difficult to break the pattern of "strong society but weak society"

It is a world difficult problem that the development of socialism is confronted with, and it is hard to break it by the development of a country alone. At present, socialist countries are moving towards the center of the world political stage, and socialist discourse has been greatly enhanced. They have played an important role in promoting world economic recovery and solving the epidemic problems. However, this does not change the fact that there is a big gap between the developing countries and the developed countries, and at the same time the problems of the economic development of the socialist countries themselves keep emerging, such as: Population Explosion, backward science and technology, social security system is not sound and other issues.

2021, the Chinese Communist Party will win a decisive victory in building the Xiaokang on the centenary of the founding of the party, and the development of socialism with Chinese characteristics will break through a new historical boundary. Poverty is not a stumbling block to the development of socialism. The successful practice of China's reform and opening-up over the past 40 years has proved that Marxism is a scientific and correct theory that can effectively lead poor and backward countries into a fast track of development, and then in the context of world socialism to help more countries continue to grow and develop. As General Secretary Xi Jinping pointed out, "especially after the collapse of the Soviet Union and the drastic changes in eastern Europe, public opinion has been heard constantly in the international arena, and various kinds of 'China collapse theories' have never been interrupted." [10] this also shows profoundly that, although China's development is growing step by step, the world's socialist development is still in a relatively difficult stage of development. The development of the capitalist market economy is more turbulent than that of the socialist planned economy. The world's five major socialist countries are in a critical period of development and can not compete with the powerful capitalist countries. At the same time, some extreme statements made by Western capitalist countries have affected the development of the world's socialist countries to varying degrees, and various voices of isolating socialism have emerged from them, make the development of socialism fall into new predicament ceaselessly. The socialist system that our country implements mainly takes the liberation of all mankind as the starting point and the foothold, and the ideal is grand and grand. Therefore, the first problem that our country needs to solve in the process of realizing the ideal is to strengthen itself, only by constantly strengthening their own voice in the development of the world can they protect their own interests in the international struggle and contribute their real strength to the cause of communism. In recent years, the contradiction between socialism and capitalism has been getting worse and worse, which has become a powerful obstacle to the development of socialism in the world. If we do not make efforts to break this pattern of world development and keep pace with the development of the world's leading countries, it will affect the future development of our country and eventually lead to backwardness and being beaten. The struggle for a pattern of "strength of resources and weakness of society" has put forward new requirements for the development of world socialism and aggravated the situation of "polarization", only by solving this global development problem can we better promote the developing countries to make continuous progress and strength.

3.2 The superiority of socialism is gradually revealed

With the development of World Socialism in the 21st century, the belief of seeking happiness for the people of the world has inspired generations of Communist believers. Today, although China has made great contributions to the cause of world socialism, it is not feasible for China alone to push forward the formation of a community of shared future for mankind, we need to rally the political and economic forces of different countries in the world for a new era of struggle in order to further open up a new horizon for world socialist development, the superiority of socialism can be "methodically" displayed in the process of promoting the liberation of all mankind.

The world's 500 years of socialist development show that, socialism is "in the ideal and the reality, the theory and the practice, the movement and the system mutual promotion, mutually complements, is carrying out the human most advanced, the most beautiful social transformation and the construction idea idea idea idea idea idea idea idea idea idea idea idea idea idea idea and the value pursue [11]". In the World Socialism Development Process, the socialism superiority mainly displays in the following four kinds: first is the socialism system superiority. It can ensure that the people are the masters of the country, and constantly carry out the people's own value pursuit, which is a very important step for the all-round development of mankind. In the absence of a People's Democratic Institution, it is difficult to ensure that the aspirations of the people are truly realized. Secondly, the implementation of a multi-distribution system based on distribution according to work is the realistic basis for ensuring socialist fairness and justice. Only when the legitimate rights and interests of the ordinary people are protected can social development be kept in order and the Socialist Movement continue to win new victories. Obviously, the socialist system has a strong organizational power and appeal, can effectively organize people to carry out social productive labor, to respond to emergencies. For example, with the outbreak of the new type of coronary pneumonia, the Communist Party of China has kept close contact with the masses at the most dangerous moment of the epidemic, has not separated itself from the masses, and has always adhered to the people-centered concept of epidemic prevention and control, the scientific response to the epidemic by pooling the people's "wisdom and strength" has won worldwide acclaim, which is a manifestation of the superiority of the socialist system. Finally, under the socialist system, the efficiency of material distribution can be improved. The various material distribution methods under the control of the state can benefit all parties and promote the further prosperity and development of society. In particular, in the difficult year of 2020, China is the only major economy in the world that has achieved positive economic growth and contributed its strength to the cause of the development of all mankind, "We have fully demonstrated the remarkable advantages of the leadership of the Communist Party of China and the socialist system of our country, the great strength of the Chinese people and the Chinese nation, the profound foundation of Chinese civilization, and the conscious commitment of China as a responsible major country. "[12]. With the economic prosperity and development of various countries, the superiority of the socialist system has gradually emerged. This is an inevitable event in the process of the world's socialist cause seeking liberation for mankind, it is also the key link for all countries to eliminate the system of exploitation and enter communism. In short, only by taking full advantage of the superiority of the socialist political and economic system, combining socialist development with individual goals, and gradually eliminating the system of exploitation and oppression that has emerged in the development of human society, only by removing the obstacles in the process of development and realizing the real sense of "self-sufficiency" can we strive for a more favorable development environment for the communist cause.

3.3 New Victories for the world's socialist development

The cause of world socialist development is an indispensable part in the course of human history, and its development and operation can not be separated from the common support of the people of all countries. In the development of the World Socialism in the 21st century, the development of the socialist cause should grasp the opportunity of the times and deal with the relations with the capitalist countries so as to win new victories in the course of development.

The development of World Socialism in the 21st century is not to mechanically copy the Socialist Line of the 20th century, but to innovate in practice and constantly seek new commanding heights of global development, in order to find a better way of Marxism suitable for the development of our country. All countries in the world must combine the basic principles of Marxism with their own concrete conditions, constantly make a new summary and sublimation of the problem of deep-seated practical development, condense it into a new Marxist guiding ideology, and seek truth in development, only by criticizing and inheriting in the inevitable course of socialist revival in the 21st century can we truly realize the ideal and faith of communism [13]. Into the 21st century in this process of in-depth exchange and cooperation, it is clear that Bolivia's "water war" is a real expression of resistance to privatization; And Cuba, an eastern country recovering from the crisis caused by the collapse of the Soviet Union and the socialist countries of Eastern Europe, has reawakened the vitality of socialist development in Latin America during the difficult decades of development in 2007-2019, the number of South African Communists, however, "was able to soar from 51,874 to 311000"[14]. All these international movements show that communism is constantly recovering and rising, and different countries are at different stages of development. But fighting for communism is the driving force for the lasting and sustained prosperity of the Eastern countries. In particular, the socialist mode of production with Chinese characteristics under the leadership of the Communist Party of China has demonstrated the strong vitality of socialism and created many opportunities for the "win-win" development of all countries in the world, this has further expanded the Socialist World Space for development. The way forward for the modernization of socialism with Chinese characteristics adheres to the development concept of "people-centered", constantly catching up with and surpassing the modernization process of western capitalism, and moving "step by step" to the center of the world modernization stage, [15]there are more than 120 communist parties in more than 100 countries on six continents, but China has always insisted on "neither the 'import' foreign model nor the 'export' China model, nor will it require other countries to 'copy' China's practices, the number of Party members has passed the hundred million mark, which is a symbol of the world's effective development and progress in the cause of socialism and its new victories. Most of these party members are in countries with developing economies. Although they are located in different regions and cultures, they can deeply identify with and embrace the truth of communism, which is a powerful force in the development of socialism in the world.

4. New Strategies and future prospects for the development of World Socialism

The existence and development of the socialist system have the objective law of its historical development. The development of the World Socialism in the 21st century must absorb the profound historical lessons, expand the application of new media technology, and do a good job of all public opinion propaganda Only by constantly strengthening ideological and public opinion propaganda work and training qualified successors of Marxism can we better promote the development and progress of the socialist cause. The Communist Manifesto says, "The communists disdain to conceal their views and intentions." Their aim can be achieved only by the violent overthrow of all the existing institution." [16] this is a profound demonstration that the communists of all countries in the world are the key force in advancing the cause of socialism, socialism in the future development must promote the formation of the community of human destiny, the people of all countries in the world can better grow in the same environment, communism can be realized in the near future.

4.1 Expand the use of new media technologies and do a good job in spreading public opinion

In the 21st century, new media technology has developed rapidly and become an important media for the spread of social public opinion and ideology. The dissemination of the media plays a very important role in whether the communist idea can be deeply rooted in the hearts of the people and whether the communist idea can be conveyed correctly. Compared with the traditional way in the past, the new media communication is more convenient and diversified, especially the popularization of the mobile phone network, so that ordinary people can quickly grasp the news hot spots of the international community through platforms such as Weibo and Wechat.

Communism can not be realized by one country, and only when the proletariat of the world unite in a continuous struggle for a new era, integrating the Communist belief into People's daily life, will it have a chance to become a reality in the movement struggle. The application of new media must emphasize the importance of news and public opinion, and must make full use of favorable channels for scientific and effective communication, so as to play the role of "all-round" education, which is imperceptibly influenced by public opinion and publicity, in the process of communication, special attention should be paid to the fact that the age and education level between the subject and the object of news and public opinion should not be a stumbling block to the development of new media. The use of multiple channels for the dissemination of data and public opinion is one of the features of the work of the new media, such as updating the state of world development: Viet Nam's upward trend in exports in the difficult year 2020, (B) to become one of the world's growing economies; Laos is affected by the epidemic and can not be expected to meet the set economic development goals; the issue of Poverty Alleviation may be postponed; and the DPRK is unable to meet the set goals in the face of international sanctions and the impact of the epidemic; Japan is preparing to dump nuclear waste water into the sea; India's new crown disease worsens and these messages are spread through Wechat, Douyin, shopping for Doddo and other crowds using more intensive platforms, the guiding effect of ideological education will be more scientific and effective. The interaction of new media in spreading world social thoughts will be more obvious than the traditional way of spreading, and the potential disaster of Japan's nuclear waste water discharge will be depicted through artificial intelligence technology, it can deeply touch the hearts of the people of the world, solve the problem of traditional single language communication, activate the positive energy of social public opinion, and spread the brilliant ideas. The new media technology of each country not only undertakes the import and dissemination of the world's socialist ideas, but also can show people's attitude towards such ideas and public opinion by means of an online questionnaire survey, then remind the national government officials at all levels to do a good job related to ideological guidance work. Some important international figures, generally speaking, are able to grasp the discourse power of world socialism scientifically, and they can also play a very important role in promoting the development of world socialism. The speeches of these important figures were quickly conveyed to the people of the world through the new media technology, forming a powerful field of public opinion dissemination, thus promoting the world socialist trend of thought to deeply touch the hearts of people. But this process also needs to guard against some political figures with ulterior motives, can not follow the trend, must pay attention to the real effect of discourse dissemination, in order to protect their own discourse sovereignty in the ideological and public opinion propaganda process. Only if we don't believe rumors and spread rumors, can new media technology go further and faster, and can we do our best for the common cause of world socialism.

4.2 To strengthen the theoretical construction of the ideology and cultivate believers in Marxism in the new era

"To study Marxism, we must study and practice Marxism on the law of the development of human society, unify the lofty ideal of communism with the common ideal of socialism with Chinese characteristics, and with what we are doing," Xi said. "We must be confident in the path, theory, system and culture of socialism with Chinese characteristics, and we must uphold the ideals and beliefs of communists." [17] guided by the thought of world communism, china's ideology has developed well, producing a series of sinicized Marxist theoretical achievements that have brought many benefits to the development of the Third World People.

Since the beginning of the 21st century, China's ability to solve various difficult and realistic problems has been recognized by people all over the world. In the course of a global epidemic, all human efforts seem trivial. And China's practical experience in the prevention and treatment of NCP has been rising to the theoretical level of ideological construction, providing the world with "Chinese wisdom" for the treatment of NCP, it has become an important "Ideological Textbook" for Marxist believers in the global new era. The cause of the development of socialism with Chinese characteristics needs the support of the people of the world. As the theoretical guide of international communism, Marxism is of profound practical significance, therefore, the Scientific Marxist theory armed with the new era of Marxist belief in the mind, is able to better moisten the effect of silent ideological dissemination and education. "The contribution of a theory to the development of mankind is not the promotion of the developed regions, but whether it is effective for the development of the backward regions,"[18], has a very important practical guiding significance. In the 21st century, Marxist ideological theory with the goal of "liberating all mankind" should become the unique foundation of every Communist Party in the world and the scientific ideological theory that people of all countries actively and deeply discuss and study. Only in this way can we better display the powerful vitality of Marxism and truly realize the free and all-round development of human beings. The belief of the people of the world in Communism has made Marxist ideological theory more deeply rooted in the hearts of the people, in the concrete guiding practice, it can better demonstrate the scientificity, practicality and feasibility of "realizing the free and all-round development of human being", and become an important ideological guarantee for cultivating successors of Marxism in the new era. The development of world socialism should continuously strengthen the thought of Marxist ideological construction, deeply integrate dialectical materialism and historical materialism into the teaching plan of training talents for the new era, and firmly believe in the belief that communism will prevail, the Long March of global communism in the 21st century. There is no doubt that Marxism in the 21st century can solve the problems of the development of human society, and there are rules to follow in applying Marxism to the actual development of various countries, this requires the ruling party to strive for the best fit point for the coordinated development of the two, and to constantly incorporate the theory of the Times on the basis of new practices, in the process of cultivating the believers of Marxism, we should give full play to the contemporary world value of Marxism.

4.3 Leading the global governance landscape and building a community with a shared future for mankind

As we enter the 21st century, the pattern of globalization has taken on a new look, and many new requirements have been put forward for cooperation and exchanges among countries in the world. If there is no awareness of global governance pattern, countries are in line with the concept of maximizing national interests to develop, it is bound to cause global conflict of interest. This is the disadvantage of the current world development, not only to the development of countries, but also to the optimal use of world resources. What is clear is that the goal of global governance is to harmonize the interests of all countries so that they can maintain their unique advantages in the world development pattern and better contribute their effective forces in the process of building a community of shared future for mankind, in order to achieve win-win cooperation.

Marxism and Friedrich Engels had called for "the proletariat of the world to unite." [19] in the pattern of world socialist development, different countries should help each other; Only by continuing scientific and technological cooperation, seeking innovative ways of governance and breaking through the new bottleneck of social development, can we achieve better coordinated development in the community of shared future. Economically, the community of shared future of mankind adheres to the concept of win-win cooperation and common development, and can better realize its own development while benefiting other countries. Only by linking their own development to the advantages of neighbouring countries and pursuing economic benefits for all can they better isolate trade protectionism and other wrong policies that are incompatible with global development. At the same time, to promote the development of world socialism, we need to build a more open, inclusive, PRATT & Whitney, balanced and win-win situation of economic globalization, and make the cake bigger by drawing on the strength of all countries, at the same time, it will encourage the countries to form a new type of cooperative relationship of mutual support and encouragement. Truly do not bully honest people, do not ignore the achievements of honest people. Politically, only by upholding the sovereign equality of states and breaking the bad habit of weak states not engaging in diplomacy can we push international relations in a better and more stable direction, more scientific and effective eradication of some Western countries released some ulterior motives of the "political virus." The relations of the international community are not determined by any country, they are not the result of the strong bullying the weak, they are the result of the establishment of political and economic development between countries, and they are the result of solidarity to further combat the epidemic, "political parties in different countries should enhance mutual trust, strengthen communication and close cooperation, and explore the establishment of a new type of party relationship based on a new type of international relations that seeks common ground while reserving differences, respects each other and learns from each other. [20]". The new type of international relations is formed for the countries to participate in the world decision-making on an equal footing and enjoy all kinds of legal rights in the world. However, to regard the world's economic development rate as a racial rating is not only disrespectful of human rights, but also a serious violation of the "I have you, I have you" concept of global village development. All countries in the world are an integral part of the community of human destiny and share equal opportunities to change the world. Therefore, it is necessary to promote international policies for the peaceful settlement of geopolitical disputes and to encourage the use of equal means of exchange among states, drawing on each other's experience, and to integrate organically into their outstanding traditional cultures in the process of exchange, for example, Belgium's sense of unity that "one finger can not cut bread" , Britain's fighting spirit that "fate always favors the brave" , and China's sense of national responsibility that "the world will rise and fall, every man is responsible" , etc., only by constantly speaking out for world peace and development can we better promote the formation of a community of shared future for mankind.

5. Conclusion

In a word, the development of World Socialism in the 21st century is a slow process, and it is impractical to run into communism, but this does not deny the good news brought to the people of the world by the development of socialism. As the cause of socialism with Chinese characteristics continues to develop and improve, the Chinese nation is standing tall and proud among the nations of the world. If the dream of becoming a great modern nation with Chinese characteristics is fulfilled as scheduled in the middle of the 21st century, it will be a great encouragement to the development of socialism in the world. The formation of a community of shared future for mankind will benefit people all over the world. The realization of communism will have an opportunity to be put on the agenda.
